NY 2nd Month Sugar Futures

NY sugar futures gained ground yesterday but struggled above 10 DMA once again to close at 19.75. The stochastics are beginning to rise, with the %K/%D edging higher out of the oversold, as the MACD diff is negative and converging on the upside. This suggests we could see a further bullish momentum in the near term, with prices edging towards 20.00 before testing the 20.14 level. The Futures, however, need to break above both the 10 and 40 DMAs levels at 19.84 and 19.87, respectively. On the downside, the market found support at 19.44, and if the prices break through this level, we could see a retracement back through 19.00. The bullish candle with a narrow body and long upper and lower wicks after a similar bearish candle point to uncertainty to break out of the current support and resistance.

Ldn 2nd Month Sugar Futures

Ldn sugar futures edged higher yesterday as intraday trading saw prices tested support at 10 DMA at 502.85. The market closed at 505.20. The RSI is rising, while %K/%D is seen diverging on the downside, a strong sell signal. The MACD diff is negative and diverging. The indicators paint a mixed picture. On the downside, in order to confirm the rejection of the support, prices need to take out the 10 DMA. A break below this level towards 40 DMA at 494.99 would confirm the bearish momentum. Conversely, appetite for prices above 510.10 could trigger a test of resistance at 521.20, the recent highs. A doji candle after the three bearish candles signals uncertainty about the outlook for lower prices, and the futures need to take out the 10 DMA to confirm the downside momentum.

NY 2nd Month Coffee Futures

NY coffee held the nerve yesterday as intraday trading caused futures to close at 186.15. RSI is rising marginally, and %K/%D are starting to improve on the upside but remain oversold. The MACD diff is negative but lacks the conviction to point out an outlook. To maintain positive momentum, prices need to close above 10 DMA at 186.86 and 40 DMA at 187.51. On the downside, the rejection of prices above 190 could trigger losses back to trend support of 180.81, confirming the breakout of the asymmetric triangle, and then 38.2% fib level at 174.74, a firm support level. Buying pressure has been weak, but the indicators point to a continuation of bullish momentum. The narrow candle body and short wicks confirm market uncertainty, as prices struggle above the two DMA resistance levels.

Ldn 2nd Month Coffee Futures

Ldn coffee held the nerve yesterday as intraday trading caused futures to close at 2160. RSI is rising marginally, and %K/%D is diverging on the upside, with %K in the oversold. Likewise, the MACD has converged on the upside and is now diverging, confirming growing upside momentum. To maintain a positive trend, prices need to close above 2173 and then target 2200. On the downside, the rejection of prices above this level could trigger losses back to 2130 and then 10 DMA at 2094. Buying pressure has been getting weaker, and the indicators point to a market being oversold. The narrow candle body and long wicks confirm market uncertainty. We believe that prices should soften in the near term.

NY 2nd Month Cocoa Futures

NY cocoa futures edged higher yesterday as intraday trading saw prices tested resistance at 10 DMA at 2654, and posted an inside day. The market closed at 2635. The RSI is neutral and %K/%D is negative and diverging. The MACD diff is negative and starting to diverge, suggesting growing selling pressure. The indicators point to lower prices in the near term, and to confirm the rejection of the 10 DMA; prices need to take out 2600. A break below this level towards 40 DMA at 2578 would confirm the strong bearish momentum. Conversely, appetite for prices above the 10 DMA could trigger a test of resistance at 2675; tertiary resistance stands at 2700. The indicators point to lower prices in the near term, and to confirm the momentum; prices need to take out 2453. A break below this level towards 40 DMA at 2444 would confirm the bearish momentum and trigger losses to 2400..
